Bruce Springsteen debuted Born to Run in 1975 at The Bottom Line, in Greenwich Village, around the corner from The Bitter End. And now, Paul Jost will perform and record his and Barry Miles' jazz arrangement of Bruce's iconic album on the legendary Bitter End stage. With him will be Jim Ridl, piano, Tony Miceli, vibes, Donald Edwards, drums, John Swana, EVI, and Chico Huff, bass.

Michael Kline, Producer of the 2015 Exit Zero Jazz Festival in Cape May, NJ, commissioned Paul, a New Jersey native like Springsteen, to do this work. Paul headlined the Festival on May 29, 2015 and first presented the work there. Since then, Paul has performed "Born to Run Re-imagined" this year in several venues. Charlie Calello, the conductor and string arranger of the original Born to Run album, was in the audience during a Philadelphia performance. He said, "Paul is brilliant. He's the real deal. I'm a really tough critic and he knocks me out." He added,

“Barry Miles’ arrangement of Jungleland is better than mine.”

Two time Grammy winner Marc Swersky (Joe Cocker, Natalie Cole) has become a great fan of Paul Jost, and arranged for this Live Recording at The Bitter End. Swersky says, “Paul is an amazing talent. I think what he’s done with Born to Run is incredible and his interpretation of the music is very unique.”

Peter McLaren, in Jazz in Europe, reviewed Jost’s album, 'Breaking Through' and said, “Paul Jost has shown that he is a force to be reckoned with and an artist that deserves to be seen on all great festival stages worldwide.”
