Don Stephenson will star in the title role of Ebenezer Scrooge's Big Playhouse Christmas Show at the Bucks County Playhouse, December 8-31. Gordon Greenberg and Steve Rosen's new adaptation of A Christmas Carol will be directed by Josh Rhodes.

Five actors, three ladders, lots of music, laughter, and one of the most beloved holiday stories ever told come together for a new Christmas show that is perfect for the entire family. Terrorizing the good citizens of Bucks County, Ebenezer Scrooge rediscovers the spirit of Christmas in this riotous Dickens mashup set in New Hope.

Stephenson will be joined by Evan Alexander Smith, Kate Wetherhead, James Ludwig, and Tracey Conyer Lee. The creative team includes Michael Carnahan (scenic designer), Brian C. Hemesath (costume designer), Cory Pattak (lighting designer), and Matthew Given (sound designer).
